DEDICATION

In the four years we have spent at Lewis we have been guided by the interest and efforts of two persons who have been ever ready to share our problems and our successes. Acting as our class advisors, they have been our understanding friends as well as our competent leaders. As a token of the debt of gratitude we owe them, the class of 1949 dedicates its yearbook to Miss Elizabeth Hannifin and Miss Marion Walsh.

In Memoriam

As the long train
Of ages glide away, the sons of men —
The youth in life's green spring and he who goes
In the full strength of years, matron and maid,
The speechless babe and the gray-headed man —
Shall one by one be gathered to thy side
By those who in their turn shall follow them.

William Cullen Bryan
Thanatopsis

Class Poem

1946

That dear old building on the hill,
The sight of which gave us a thrill;
That long hard climb up well-known stairs,
The fun of feeling free from cares;

1947

A crowded study with "umpteen" seats,
English classes with Shelley and Keats;
Football games during the fall,
Cheering victory, large or small;

1948

Friends and classmates hurrying by,
Smiling that familiar "Hi";
All these things are ending now,
Three years have gone we know not how.

1949

We've known each other very long,
But to say good-bye seems oh so wrong.
And each will go along his way,
Reunion will come on some future day.
With memories and a tearful eye
We bid adieu to Lewis High.

Class History

On September 5, 1945, the 49'ers began their trek for gold, which was to lead through four years of work and study — four years of friendship and fun — four years of a high school student's life. Those who had journeyed the trail before inspired us with tales of the wealth to be found, and those then traveling the trail some distance ahead of us sent back word of the hardships and perils of the route. For an undertaking of this sort, a great deal seemed to depend on our choice of a guide. We were fortunate in selecting one both capable and understanding, Miss Elizabeth Hannifin. For two and a half years our problems and our triumphs were to be hers also.

Our first year enroute was one of learning the ways of the trail and becoming acquainted with our course. Our blunders and missteps were numerous, but as we look back now, far more humorous than serious; they were only what was to be expected of a tenderfoot. To head our caravan for this year we chose Robert Liguori President and Allen Potter Vice-President. Betty Wright kept our records and Frances Riera, our wealth. Kathleen Iannucci reported our activities for publication in the Emblem.

It took so much of our time and effort to become acquainted with our new way of life and keep up with the rush, that we made but one side trip into the social world. On December 7 we took time out from the press of our journey to sponsor a sport dance, which was well attended despite the apparently low social rank of us Freshmen. By June our saddle stiffness had begun to disappear and we really seemed to be enjoying the whole thing; but we found we had already come a year's journey, and we pitched camp for the summer.

When we broke camp and pushed on in the fall of '46 we found to our relief that, although we were still traveling in the wake of two caravans ahead, we were no longer last on the trail; the class of 1950 had taken over that lowly position, and we were quick to tell them the same frightening tales of hardships ahead which we had heard the year before. For this quarter of our journey we chose James Mongillo as our President. He was backed by Vice-President Francis Cari, Secretary Lois DeVries, Treasurer Dorothy Sabecki, and Emblem Reporter Lorraine Wendt.

Since we were now accustomed to the routine of high school life we enlarged the scope of our activities. A cake sale and a Christmas dance were held in the fall and in the spring another dance, "In the Pink." We camped that summer of '47 exactly on the halfway mark of our journey to the gold of '49.

In the fall we moved on, now second only to the omnipotent Seniors in importance. In preparation for a big year we chose Joe Lippia our leader and Rit D'Angelo his assistant. Jean Hayward kept notes on our progress, which Rit D'Angelo wrote up for the Emblem, and Tom Pedrolini watched our store of nuggets. Tom was replaced on January 22 by Francis Cioffi, who carried the saddle bags of gold for the remainder of the year. Our main project was a candy concession, which unfortunately was not the financial success hoped for.

However, November 22 of '47 was a gala occasion — our never-to-be-forgotten Junior Prom. The fellows in their tuxes may not have looked quite like the guy in the ad, but there was evidence that we were growing up. Tommy Martin's music, one's favorite fellow or girl, and a festive Mardi Gras theme spelled a memorable evening.

By this time we had come to rely a great deal on Miss Hannifin — perhaps we even took her for granted. But now, just as we were approaching our really big year at Lewis, we learned she was leaving our faculty at the end of the fall term. Things looked gloomy, but once again we were fortunate. On January 22, 1948, we chose

Miss Hannifin's successor on the teaching staff, Miss Marion Walsh, as our new advisor. For the remainder of our journey Miss Walsh has been our guide and our comrade.

Now that we again had a capable guide to lead us, we sponsored a dance in January, one in March, and the Senior Farewell Dance in June. Although we really were sorry to see our friends in the class of '48 leave our midst, we couldn't help thinking that just as soon as they did leave, we would be the leaders — the Seniors of LHS.

The site we chose for our summer camp in '48 was a beautiful spot; in the distance shimmered the mountains we were aiming for, and between lay a fertile green valley of a year's activity and fund, and — for the first time — there were no other riders before us! In September we broke camp and moved into the valley; we found it fully as wonderful as it had looked in the distance.

After the bustle of setting out for our final year had abated a bit, we gathered around the camp fire to elect our leaders. To cope with the increased activity of our Senior year it was decided to choose a Senate of ten members to serve for one half of the school year. Their first duty would be to nominate a slate of officers; thereafter they would direct class activities, appoint committees, and assist the President. The members chosen for our first Senate were: Jack Clark, Kathy Cockayne, Rit D'Angelo, Florence Dubicki, Carl Hall, Jean Hayward, Marguerite Napolitano, Mary Nigro, Mary Snow, and John Tacinelli. After a close contest on the ballots the following officers were elected: President, Allen Potter; Vice-President, Bob Warner; Secretary, Alice Terry; Treasurer, Sue Adams; and Emblem Reporter, Matthew Dashukewich.

We started off our year by welcoming the Freshmen at a dance held in October. A committee was appointed to conduct food sales at school each Thursday throughout the year, as a source of revenue for our never-amply-filled treasury.

Our next side trip was conducted on December 3 and 4 into the land of make-believe. On those two evenings we presented our Senior play, Honor Bright. Given by an all-star cast of thirteen and produced by a capable crew of technicians and workers, it was an instant hit; and only the press of school duties prevented the '49'ers from a longer run on Broadway. Again we owe Miss Walsh a debt of gratitude, this time for her fine performance as director.

When the calendar turned from the last day of 1948 to the first of 1949 a new Senate came into office to serve for the remainder of the year. Those previously elected to this group were Dorothy Atwater, Francis Cari, Francis Cioffi, John Ferrucci, Barbara Heise, James Mongillo, Frances Riera, Dorothy Sabecki, Betty Wright, and Caesar Zobbi.

Now the end of our journey was in sight, and we found ourselves welcoming the social activities less because they offered a break from the rocky trail of high school studies, and more because they prolonged the little time we should be together. On February 18 Bob Warner and Ann Muus reigned as King and Queen over the court pageantry of the annual Senior event — the Saint Valentine's Dance. On April 2 we sponsored another dance, this one built around an April Fool's theme.

As busy as we were, we realized that we were nearing our claim in the gold fields. We would not be trail riders much longer. Our last big event was the Senior Prom, which was planned to be everything we could have dreamed of — a fine orchestra, gala decorations, and an evening of happiness together.

In June now that we had reached the end of the trail we gathered together — and the thought occurred to some of us that it might be the last time we would all be there — for our Class Night banquet. The following Monday evening, June 20, 1949, we proudly received our diplomas from "The Institution on the Hill" and found that we are no longer '49'ers on the quest for hidden treasures. We will always be loyal '49'ers but our search for ore is over. We have struck gold, and we are rich — rich in lessons learned, experiences shared, and memories that shall live with us forever.

Class Will

The members of the graduating class of Lewis High School, 1949, (hereafter to be referred to as the party of the first part) having duly taken into consideration all services rendered to said party during, and all aspects of, the past four years by any and such persons (who shall be known as the party of the second part) as have been associated with the party of the first part, and being of exceptional sound mind and body, not to mention intelligence, (and take our advice, don't) do hereby bequeath the following articles to said parties of the second part:

Miss Barry: At French you are so adept that this book may be useful in writing a revised French Book of your own.

Miss Beach: Of music you are the most appreciative, so this iron may be helpful in pressing out some of the "not so sweet" melodies that may come from your choral groups.

Miss Bedford: Your work on the Emblem is done for another year, but in order to cope with it again next year, we give you a well-earned vacation.

Mr. Boland: As assistant coach of Lewis, we present to you this basketball, that you may always remember the sports of which you were a great part.

Miss Collins: To you, because of your fondness for the game, we give these Bingo chips and along with them the best of luck in using them.

Mr. D'Angelo: Your son is the subject of much of your conversation. This megaphone will help you to be heard by all.

Mrs. Fontana: We see you busily cleaning and dusting. We're sure this broom will help to keep your room as neat as you've made it.

Mr. Fontana: Because you spend most of your time answering telephone calls, we give you this phone of your very own, to save you a great deal of time.

Miss Halloran: As advisor to next year's seniors, this money-saving device will come in handy.

Mr. Joyal: In hope that your opinion of gum chewers may change, we give you this package of gum and hope you enjoy it.

Mr. McSorley: We have been told that your Archery Club could use these new arrows and target. We know they'll be put to good use.

Mr. Mucci: A new baby is very expensive, so in order to defray the cost, we give you this sum of money.

Mrs. Powers: Because you enjoy knitting so much, we give you this special instruction book with hopes that it will give you many hours of enjoyment.

Mrs. Prior: The housing shortage caused you quite an ordeal. We give you this house that you may never be in that position again.

Mr. Rathbun: So that you may never be mistaken when at a track meet, we give you a uniform upon which you will find a Lewis "L."

Miss Shorey: We know that you go to your island each year, so we present you with this lamp to make your way brighter.

Mr. Small: Since you enjoy gardening so much, we give you these seeds to aid you in planting your garden this year.

Mr. Stowe: For your many years as a teacher and helper at Lewis High School, we present to you this gold medal.

MISS WALSH: Your car must have been delayed somewhere along the line, so we give this one to take its place.

MRS. ARMOND: Because you had such a good time on your vacation, we give you this mask to bring back pleasant memories.

MISS BRISTOL: As secretary you are called on to do a great deal of writing. This pen will help to keep your penmanship as neat as always.

MRS. DIBIASSO: To save you all the trouble and expense of your morning travel, we give you this bus to ride to and from work.

MR. PHELAN: When entering a room, you are never heard. We give you these cleats to warn of your approach.

MR. STEWART: For a man who enjoys smoking, we give you another pipe to add to the collection you must have.

MR. STRONG: As an extensive traveler, you can probably put this gas to goood use.

CLASS OF '50: To the future seniors we give this horseshoe with best wishes for future good luck.

To the Class of '51 we give the prestige of being upperclassmen.

As Sophomores, Class of '52, we give you the right to plague the Freshman.

And now to the Class of '53, we give all our forgotten hopes of graduating from the new high school.

Here's a tissue to keep it cleaned.

FRANCIS THOMASINO
Filling inkwells is an office boy's chore,
Perhaps this large one may hold a bit more.

FRANK VARDILOS
At Christmas time you sold many a tree,
This perfect one should fill you with glee.

ROBERT WARNER
As king you reigned on the Valentine throne,
Keep this one for your very own.

WILLIAM ZAKREWSKI
When your next limmerick you write,
Use this dazzling idea bright.

WALTER ZAJAC
To all of us Archie is your name,
We give this comic book entitled the same.

WALTER ZIEBKA
About your good looks we've heard so much,
May this bring "the skin you love to touch."

CAESAR ZOBBI
Around Room B you're the handy man,
May this one take your place, if he can.

In writing these verses we had quite a time,
The lines wouldn't scan, the words wouldn't rime.

But read over these verses that we have chose,
The deadline is near, and now we must close.
